There are no 2 clients with the same IT needs.

Each enterprise is an independent being, with owned business models, unique work modalities, and particular IT requirements.

Mkit is a versatile and dynamic company, and thanks to that we can fully adjust to the needs of each client that hires our services.

From a small business that requires simple solutions, to a big corporation with branches on different cities or countries, with trilingual coverage and one or several DataCenters.

Mkit is there for the client, taking part and taking responsibility, providing you with security, tranquility and confidence.

An obstacle commonly found on companies that provide IT solutions is the lack of integration between the services they provide.

In Mkit, through our “100% Solutions” policy, we commit to cover each and every one of the client’s IT needs.

To do that, we count with a research and development department, thanks to which we can assure the client that any requirement that is not currently covered by the company, will be incorporated to our service list and will be ready to be offered in a Maximum of 60 days.

A company is more than a group of people united to provide a product or a service.

A company is an engine, with thousands of parts, each of them as vital as the next one. If one fails, all fail.

Mkit keeps work methodologies regularly found on first world companies, to be able to certify and assure that the engine that runs your company does not fail.

Each client is equally important, and each need is valued and treated like the next one.

Our ways of contact are available 24/7, week after week. Each issue will be taken care of with the highest of importances.
